VISION, MISSION, AND VALUES

The vision of CityU's Master of Counselling Program is to educate skilled, diverse, socially just psychological practitioners. Our mission is to prepare culturally competent clinicians to work effectively with individuals through our practitioner-scholar-advocate model. This brings real-world experience into the classroom and emphasizes the core principles of reconciliation, diversity, equity, and inclusion. Our core program values are reconciliation, diversity, advocacy, flexibility, connection, and healing.

TERRITORIAL ACKNOWLEDGEMENT & STATEMENT OF INCLUSION

City University in Canada (CityU) acknowledges and respects that we are on the traditional territories of First Nations, Metis, and Inuit Peoples. Each of our campuses resides on a different territory, each with their own distinct languages, culture, and traditions. In the spirit of reconciliation and in respect of the diversity among nations, we would like to acknowledge the territories for each of our campuses.

We acknowledge that our Vancouver, British Columbia campus is located on the unceded and traditional territory of the Coast Salish Nations of xʷməθkʷəy̓əm (Musqueam), sə́lilwətaʔ (Tsleil-Waututh), and Skwxwú7mesh (Squamish) Peoples.

We acknowledge that our Southern Vancouver Island campus is located on the traditional and unceded territory of the Coast Salish Peoples of the Esquimalt, Songhees, and W̱SÁNEĆ Nations.

The lands that we at CityU are on hold the history and cultural traditions of many Indigenous Peoples. We recognize that Indigenous traditions, knowledge, and languages have been deeply damaged by the ongoing colonization of and biases against Indigenous Peoples. We acknowledge these territories with respect to their heritage and communities. With this acknowledgment, we are committed to begin building and maintaining respectful relationships with local Indigenous communities.

CityU honours human diversity in all its forms and is committed to the principle of universal human dignity. We further acknowledge that our learning community is greatly enriched through the voices and perspectives of staff, faculty, and students from all intersections of society including LGBTQ+, BIPOC and diversely-abled communities.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

In this course, students will critically examine a range of therapeutic approaches to working with children and youth. Issues such as sexual identity, mental health, substance use, and peer relations will be explored from a range of theoretical perspectives.

Throughout CityU's Master of Counselling Program, students are encouraged to film themselves and review their counselling skills when working in dyads, triads or groups. Note that the consent of all participants involved must be acquired before any filming may proceed.

CONSIDERATION OF SOCIAL JUSTICE ISSUES

City University in Canada is committed to social justice, access, and inclusion. Throughout their studies in the Master of Counselling Program, students are invited to reflect on a range of social justice questions as follows:

- How does our own experience of privilege impact our ability to critically evaluate counselling theories and the provision of counselling services within the counselling field?
- What is the experience of racialized and othered individuals within counselling, e.g., are clients able to see themselves represented within their counsellor, or the counselling experience? Are indigenous healing practices acknowledged?
- Why do the majority of counselling theories represent the academic and research views of predominantly white, middle-class, European, male perspective? Which counselling theories break away from this dominant perspective, and how do they contribute to our overall understanding of working with cultures and identities that differ from our own?

Therapeutic Activity (30%)

See Schedule for Due Date and Group Assignments

Students will design and present a therapeutic activity or game for use with children and/or families. The therapeutic activity will take into account the developmental level of the child, issues specific to that child and/or family and the most effective way to use the activity with the child/family. Each group will have 1- hour to explain, deliver and debrief the intervention with the class. Each group will submit a 1- 2-page written summary of the objectives and instructions of the exercise

Grading Criteria	Grade Points

Peer Review Group Report (10%)

See Schedule for Due Date and Group Assignments

Peer review is a core academic activity in which colleagues support one another's professional development by offering feedback on each other's scholarly work. Working in small groups, students will provide classmates with feedback on one assignment addressing the following questions:

- 1) What did we appreciate about one another's work?
- 2) What did we find challenging about one another's work?
- 3) What changes did we recommend to improve one another's work?

Students will complete a peer review of their classmates Therapeutic Activity Assignment. Consult "Assignment Resources" tab on Brightspace for assignment resources and template.

World Café Assignment (30%)

In class Assignment November 19th, 2026

Case studies will be provided in class, and students will participate in a World Café–style collaborative activity to analyze clinical cases and develop case conceptualizations and treatment recommendations. Working in small groups, students will engage in a series of structured discussions focused on different aspects of the case. Through rotating between groups and building on the ideas generated by their peers, students will collaboratively examine relevant clinical information, apply theoretical and clinical frameworks, consider multiple perspectives, and develop a comprehensive understanding of the client's presenting concerns and needs.

The World Café format emphasizes active participation, collaborative clinical reasoning, and shared learning. Students are expected to contribute to discussions, critically engage with their peers' ideas, consider alternative conceptualizations, and work collectively to develop clinically informed treatment recommendations.

Following the in-class World Café activity, each student will select one of the case studies discussed in class as the basis for their Case Conceptualization and Treatment Paper. The World Café assignment provides an opportunity to collaboratively explore and develop clinical case conceptualizations that students can subsequently build upon in their individual papers.

Case Conceptualization & Treatment Paper (30%)

Due December 10th, 2026 at Midnight via BrightSpace

Students will develop a case conceptualization/treatment plan for a case study provided by the instructor. The plan will be based on the following:

1. Gather additional information (as one would in a real counselling situation) from other sources, including school personnel, individuals (name them) and family members, in accord with specific theoretical ideas that guide a practice;
2. Using the information given in the case studies and the additional information “gathered,” design a general therapy plan for the child/adolescent, including frequency of sessions and duration of treatment, appropriate diagnosis and/or working hypothesis, systemic considerations (including family issues and dynamics), possible referrals and/or case management. Note that the plan must integrate key considerations pertaining to diversity, intersectionality, and social justice;
3. Establish a general plan of action that coordinates a specific treatment model/procedure with the clinical problem, and context;
4. Identify some strengths to build upon or to utilize in therapy, e.g., a positive relationship with a teacher, an interest in sports, and family strengths, such as, a positive sibling relationship? Imagine some and how one might use them;
5. Detail three short-term (3-month) therapeutic goals. Be as specific and objective as possible, e.g., child will learn one self-relaxation technique; recognize situations where relaxation will help; develop a plan of action when or if she/he feels like harming her/himself. These goals could be for the child, youth, family or system in which they function;
6. Describe how one decides it is time to end therapy and describe at least one closure activity. Be as specific and objective as possible, e.g., child will be involved in at least one after-school or extracurricular activity. With whom and how will this be determined;
7. Briefly reflect on any personal discoveries or insights that emerged from this process.

This paper will be 10-12 pages double spaced and include a minimum of 8 scholarly references from the past 5 years. APA formatting and citations are mandatory as the failure to cite sources appropriately constitutes plagiarism.

Grading Criteria	Grade Points
Organization and Coherence	10 Points
Case Conceptualization/Treatment	20 Points
Application	20 Points

Professional Ethics	20 Points
Cultural Competence	20 Points
APA	10 Points
Total	100 Points

Course Policies

Late Assignments

Graduate students are expected to submit all assignments by the due dates stated in the syllabus. A late assignment is one that is submitted after the due date and time or after any extension has expired.

If circumstances prevent a student from meeting the due date, students should contact the instructor and request an extension at least 48 hours prior to the date the assignment is due. Emergency situations will be considered on a case-by-case basis. Being busy, pressured with outside work, or having competing academic commitments are not usually considered valid reasons to receive extensions.

A student who receives an extension in advance of the due date and abides by the agreement with the instructor is not subject to late penalties. The guideline for late penalties is a deduction of one point per day from the overall grade for the first 10 days and 5 points per day after 10 days. Instructors may vary these guidelines in response to the specific conditions and requirements of each course. In the absence of an alternative announced by the Instructor the default policy is the general guideline cited above. Assignments may be re-written only with the express consent of the Instructor and under exceptional circumstances.

Participation

All MC courses encourage active engagement in discussion, dialogue, role plays and similar exercises in order to receive the maximum educational benefits. Participation includes constructive criticism and the negotiation of different perspectives and ideas. Recognizing that there are many forms of participation a range of forms and styles are welcomed. Active engagement means being attentive. Similarly, it is recognized that there are situations in which learning to hold one's counselor to not participate verbally are valuable learning experiences.

Consistent attendance and a willingness to be actively involved in classroom discussions, small group activities, and at times classroom presentations or role plays assists in creating a vibrant learning community.

Many MC courses include a participation component and, in some cases, assignments specify that participation will be graded. In such cases the criteria for participation will be made known along with the requirements for grade achievement.

Professional Writing

Assignments require error-free writing that uses standard English conventions and logical flow of organization to address topics clearly, completely, and concisely. CityU requires the use of APA style.

University Policies

Students are responsible for understanding and adhering to all of CityU's academic policies. The most current versions of these policies can be found in the University Catalog that is linked from the CityU Web site.

Any student who has experienced discrimination based on the above criteria is encouraged to report this to the University. Students may report an experience of discrimination to their course instructor. If they do not feel safe reporting to their instructor, students may report an experience of discrimination directly to the university Provost or the Vice President of Student Affairs.

CityU adheres to all federal, state, and local civil rights laws prohibiting discrimination in employment and education. The University is committed to ensuring that the education environment is bounded by standards of mutual respect and safety and is free from discriminatory practices.

In Canada, in compliance with the British Columbia Human Rights Code, the Alberta Human Rights Act, WorksafeBC, and the Workers' Compensation Board of Alberta, the University believes that its environment should at all times be supportive and respectful of the dignity and self-esteem of individuals. Discrimination, harassment and bullying conduct, whether through person-to-person behaviour or via electronic communications such as email or social media is not acceptable and will not be tolerated. policy, including more information about how to request an accommodation, is available in the University Catalog and on the my.cityu.edu student portal. Accommodations must be requested by the 20% mark of this course (e.g. day 14 of a ten-week course, day 7 of a 5-week course) using the Religious Accommodations Request Form found on the student dashboard in the my.cityu.edu student portal.

Academic Integrity Academic integrity in students requires the pursuit of scholarly activity that is free from fraud, deception and unauthorized collaboration with other individuals. Students are responsible for understanding CityU's policy on academic integrity and adhering to its standards in meeting all course requirements. A complete copy of this policy can be found in the University Catalog under Student Rights and Responsibilities on the page titled Academic Integrity Policy.

Attendance

Students taking courses in any format at the University are expected to be diligent in their studies and attend class regularly. Regular class attendance/contact is important in achieving learning outcomes in the course and correlates in many cases with participation. As such it may be a valid consideration in determining the final grade. At the beginning of each course, the instructor will inform students of the relevance of class attendance/contact to the final grade.

Attendance in this class is vital to learning the required course material and demonstrates professionalism and respect for fellow students and the instructor. All students are required to attend every class for the full duration of the class. Arriving late or leaving early will constitute an unexcused absence. It is expected that students who will not be attending or who will be arriving late notify the instructor before class starts.

Excused absences are limited to ILLNESS OR EMERGENCY. Absences related to illness may require verification from a medical doctor. All other absences will be considered unexcused.

In the event of inclement weather, students will be notified by a CityU representative and / or faculty of site closures. As student and faculty safety is a priority, students who feel that driving conditions are unsafe will be permitted an excused absence without penalty. Students are responsible for notifying the instructor before class starts that they will not be attending class due to inclement weather.

Students with more than 2 unexcused absences will be directed to meet with the local Program Director to discuss continued participation in the course. 3% of students' overall course grade will be deducted for each unexcused absence.

A complete copy of CityU's policy can be found in the University Catalog under Student Rights and Responsibilities on the page titled Attendance.

Final Assignment Due Date

Final assignments for each class at CityU must be due on or before the final date of the course as indicated in the university's course information system. Due dates that extend beyond the final date of the course may negatively impact tuition funding for students.

Sensitive Content Notice

Because the counselling profession is designed to explore the inner life of individuals, certain content discussed in CityU's Master of Counselling courses may be emotionally activating for students. The university's goal is to empower students to practice active self-care throughout their time in the program. Active self-care is an ethical responsibility for those in self-regulating professions and assists clinicians in successfully meeting clients in spaces where emotionally sensitive content is present. Similarly, in the Master of Counselling program, an ethic of care for the self is a critical consideration.

Emotionally sensitive content involves a wide variety of topics including, but not limited to, abuse, assault, neglect, self-harm, identity, sexuality, appearance, misogyny, classism, racialized issues, colonization, religious practices, trauma, grieving, ageism, caregiving, and physical or mental health. Students are encouraged to carefully attend to their emotional wellbeing when reading, listening to, viewing, or participating in course activities involving sensitive content.

It is important to note that exploring sensitive content is an inherent part of the counselling profession. However, the complexity of human experience means students' personal histories may become activated to the point that effective learning is no longer feasible. In such cases, students are encouraged to prioritize balancing their emotional wellbeing with their professional growth. This may be done through timely self-reflection and communication with instructors and/or peers about the self-regulation strategies students will implement while engaging sensitive content.

As part of their professional growth, students are also encouraged to pursue personal counselling related to sensitive content explored in the program. Personal counselling deepens students' learning and provides insight into their future clients' experiences of the therapeutic process. Additional resources available to students include the Empower Me Program, Self-Care folders in Brightspace, and local campus wellness initiatives.

Masters of Counselling Professional Code of Conduct

In addition to City University's general student code of conduct located in the Registrar's City U Calendar, counselling students are further expected to conduct themselves in a manner that is consistent with the core values of the profession they are entering. Students will be encouraged to adopt the following behaviours and are accountable to their peers, faculty, and CityU to sincerely undertake the development of these hallmarks of maturity:

1. Respect the dignity of classmates, faculty, and administrators without prejudice in all forms of behaviour and communication in matters of race, religion, skin colour, ethnicity, gender, orientation, physical presentation, age, ancestry or birthplace. This includes, but is not limited to, standing up against and/or reporting behaviours such as bullying, scapegoating, gossip, slander etc.
2. Maintain a positive approach to managing course-related, administrative, or relationship challenges in line with the core values of the profession. This includes, but is not limited to, directly approaching specific individuals regarding concerns of note and attempting to collaborate and independently problem-solve prior to involving faculty or administrators in the matter. Students who feel unable to independently resolve the issue should seek the support of cohort representatives, faculty, or staff.
3. Demonstrate exemplary personal conduct consistent with the values of the profession including integrity, accountability, reflexivity, generosity, compassion, inclusiveness, honesty, courage, maturity, thoughtfulness, good judgment, patience, and fairness. Demonstrate a commitment to modelling the standards and ethics of the counselling profession in all aspects of personal conduct in both the university and community at large.
4. Access City University's campuses or resources ONLY with approval from an authorized representative of the university.
5. Recognize that students with formal academic accommodations are expected to meet the same academic standards as their peers with the help of additional supports and reasonable, penalty free extensions.
6. Recognize that consistent face-to-face and online class attendance is a basic, non-negotiable requirement of the program and that the program's attendance policies will be enforced without exception. Students who are absent for any reason are required to make up all instructional hours and assignments at the discretion of the instructor.
7. Ensure that all requests for assignment extensions (with and without accommodations) are submitted to faculty a minimum of 48 hours in advance of the assignment due date. Extensions may not be granted after assignment due dates have passed.
8. Respect and behave in accordance with the appropriate professional boundaries inherent in faculty, administrative, and evaluative roles.
9. As an ambassador for the City University program, conduct themselves in a manner that strengthens the reputation of the profession, one's peers, and the program.

10. Actively develop and practice the core counselling skills of attunement, presence, and empathy in all program-related interpersonal interactions.
11. Respond to feedback from faculty and administrators in ways that facilitate personal growth, preserve our collaborative learning environment, and reflect the standards of the counselling profession.
12. Balance enthusiastic contributions to classroom discussion with ensuring there is sufficient space for all voices to be heard. This involves actively staying aware of the dynamics of class discussions and actively encouraging everyone's participation.
13. Commit to active course participation that contributes to one's own and others learning.
14. Embrace both positive and challenging academic learning opportunities and consider how these experiences can be applied in the service of personal and professional growth.
