COURSE CATALOG DESCRIPTION

This graduate-level seminar provides a rigorous, experiential examination of cognitive-behavioral interventions with a core emphasis on contemporary third-wave modalities, including Acceptance and Commitment Therapy (ACT), Dialectical Behaviour Therapy (DBT) core skills, and standard Beckian longitudinal case conceptualization. Students will participate actively as both clinicians and reflective peers through clinical role-plays, dyadic live demonstrations, exposure protocol design, and behavioural experiment construction.

PROGRAM LEARNING OUTCOMES & ETHICAL STANDARDS

- PLO 1 (Clinical Formulation): Synthesize presenting psychological symptomatology into comprehensive, culturally-responsive cognitive case conceptualizations.
- PLO 2 (Intervention Execution): Demonstrate therapeutic attunement, cognitive restructuring, defusion techniques, and distress tolerance training in clinical simulations.
- PLO 3 (Supervisory Reflexivity): Conduct structured peer supervision using validated evaluative frameworks while recognizing transference and power dynamics.
- PLO 4 (Ethical Boundaries): Apply jurisdictional legal standards and professional ethics codes governing client privacy, risk mitigation, and documented consent.

DETAILED ASSIGNMENT REQUIREMENTS

1. Comprehensive Clinical Case Formulation (35%)

Students select an assigned complex client dossier and formulate a biopsychosocial assessment and Beckian longitudinal diagram. Submissions must detail predispositions, precipitating stressors, maintenance cycles, and an evidence-informed 12-week stepped-care plan. A minimum of six peer-reviewed empirical studies from the past 5 years is mandatory.

2. Simulated Dyadic Clinical Demonstration (30%)

Working in assigned dyads, each student conducts a 45-minute clinical intervention role-playing a designated therapeutic impasse (e.g., exposure avoidance, cognitive fusion, or severe affective dysregulation). Students are evaluated on empathetic presence, Socratic dialogue, and intervention fidelity.

3. Critical Peer Supervision & Consultation (15%)

Adopting a supervisory role, students analyze a peer dyad's recorded demonstration utilizing the Cognitive Therapy Rating Scale (CTRS). Feedback must be delivered via a standardized consultation rubric focusing on pacing, collaborative empiricism, and specific actionable recommendations.

4. Seminar Engagement & Clinical Reflexivity (20%)

Evaluated through prepared contributions in small-group break-out clinics, active listening, adherence to classroom confidentiality, and a closing 2-page personal reflexivity log documenting therapist self-regulation and countertransference insights.
